Innovate your team

Take on a fully-supported and tech-savvy graduate student.

The Queensland Government's IT Graduate Program is helping to build a workforce dedicated to a more responsive and digital future.

Government agencies can employ one or more recent university graduates through the program for two years, in either a technical or non-technical role. For a small fee, the IT graduate team do all the hard work – including attraction, recruitment and training, and providing ongoing support.

The IT Graduate Program is a unique situation which benefits both parties. It enables graduates to obtain on the job, real life experience, and enables you and their mentors to shape the beginning of their working life, which can be fulfilling in itself. It can also bring enthusiasm, new ideas and technologies to your team.
